

2017 Women Bank Executives' Forum

February 2, 2017 ▪ June 1, 2017 ▪ October 5, 2017
The Bankers Center ▪ Baton Rouge ▪ 10:00am-2:00pm

Professional development comes in many forms – facilitated training, self-instruction, and, perhaps the most valuable, tips and stories shared by colleagues experiencing the same set of challenges. Join LBA and Louisiana-based leadership expert Julie Laperouse of Emergent Method for a development series exclusively for female banking executives. This original three-part series will merge facilitated workshops with networking and small group problem-solving. Each session will focus on a different professional development topic with the first two hours dedicated to a facilitated training workshop and the last two hours reserved for lunch with small group discussion and “hack sharing” with fellow female banking executives.

Professional Development Topics:

- “Why can’t you do what I’m thinking?” - Appreciating the differences in Leadership, Management, and Coaching and building skills in all three.
- “I’m leaning so far in, I’m falling on my face” - Assessing demands from workplace, community, and home, and, creating a strategy for the best blend.
- “Working with Humans” - The unique emotional intelligence and conflict resolution requirements of today’s executive.
