LBA PEER GROUP MEETINGS

As banks grow, the need for an internal bank training department grows. If you have started a bank training department, please share your experiences and how you had to adjust to get it right. Trainers are always looking for ways to engage their audience in a way that will increase information retention. What is your best advice for engagement and retention? How much technology are you using in your training? Let's discuss these and any other topics you would like during the October 12 peer group meeting.
